

Peter Conder

Peter has experience treating stress related to combat, being a responder, grief and loss, neurodivergence, mood, parenting, intersectionality, academics, work, boredom, substance use, and performance. Practice areas are assessment, identity, memory care, the nervous system, daily performance, medicinal practices, spirituality, skill-building, and community connection and experiences.

As a combat veteran of Operation Iraqi Freedom and Operation Enduring Freedom with responder triage and evacuation training and experience, Peter's responsive approach thrives on trust and informed client-centered care.
